COSTLY FIRE AT MANILLA

Implement Store Owned by J. E. Creed Totally Destroyed.

Thought to Have Started From Spark From a Locomotive.

The implement store of J. E. Creed at Manilla was completely destroyed by a costly fire last Tuesday evening. The blacksmith shop of James Curson, located in the rear of the same structure, was also a total loss. The building was valued at $1750. The Creed stock lost was worth at least $2500. The insurance on both was $3000. Curson's loss will amount to over one hundred dollars with no insurance. In addition Mr. Creed was an officer of the Manilla gas company and in his building were stored meters, pipes, connectors and other apparatus worth one hundred dollars, the loss on this being entire.

The structure was located in the western part of town and about fifty feet from the railway tracks. It was formerly the old Methodist church, but was moved to its present site about four years ago. About two years ago a considerable sum was spent in remodeling the building.

The fire was discovered about seven o'clock last night by Curtis Webb.

He gave the alarm at once and soon many citizens were on hands to aid in fighting the flames. Luckily the fire was prevented from spreading, although the building of Frank Curson across the street was scorched and damaged by the heat. Had the misfortune occurred later in the evening, it is probable that half the town would have been wiped out.

Several theories have been advanced to explain the origin of the conflagration. One theory which has gained a great deal of favor is that it was caused by a spark from the engine of a south-bound freight, which had passed only a few moments before. The roof of the Creed building is a tarred one. Inside the building were some barrels of lime, and another theory is that the fire may have been started by the lime.

Only a few planks and a few buggies were saved, although strenuous efforts were made to rescue as much property as possible from the burning building. The American Continental company is the firm which carried the insurance of Mr. Creed.

A carload of new farm wagons (sixteen in all), two rubber tired buggies, one steel tired one, and a vast amount of harness, farming implements and axle grease went up in the flames which threatened to spread to residences near the burning building. The residence of John H. Brown caught fire, but was saved with little damage, and a small amount of damage was done to a residence owned by Mr. Emma Parrish, formerly of Shelbyville, but now of Indianapolis.

Mr. Curson stated that as there was no place in Manilla, where he could start up his blacksmith shop at once, he intended to purchase a tent today to shelter him until other arrangements could be made.

COWHORN IS STILL IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Walter Cowhorn, the man thought to have been fatally injured by getting caught in the line shaft at the Orange saw mill, yesterday, is still alive this afternoon, although his recovery is still doubtful. He regained consciousness last night, but was only slightly better today.

—Greenfield Tribune: J. L. Smith went to Indianapolis Wednesday to attend the funeral of his cousin, Mrs. Caroline Jameson. She was 71 years of age and was formerly a resident of Rush county.

RUSHVILLE LINE GETS NEW CARS

Old Ones Will be Sent to Shelbyville—Soon be Ready For Use.

The Shelbyville Morning News says: "The new cars for the I. & C. traction line have arrived at Rushville and will be ready to be used next week. The trucks are being placed under the cars at the present time and after a few electrical connections have been made they will be ready for use. The News learned yesterday from an official source that the present cars in use on the Shelbyville line will be disposed of. The eleven new cars will be placed on the Rushville line and the cars now used on the Rushville line will be sent to the Shelbyville line. The official was asked why he had to use the old ones and his only excuse was that Shelbyville had no car barns large enough to repair the new cars if they got out of shape. He further stated that the amount of business on the Shelbyville line is far in excess of that of the Rushville line, the proportion being 3.9 to 1. Notwithstanding he will have to take what Rushville discards."

Ex-President of Arlington Bank to be Tried the First Week in September.

The case of the State of Indiana vs. Horace V. Goodrich, ex-president of the defunct Arlington bank, charging embezzlement, which was set for trial this week has again been continued. The case will not now come up for trial at this term of court and has been set for the first week in September.

It seems that the defendant's attorneys were not notified when the case was last set for trial in time for them to alter their plans and prepare for trial, and as a consequence the local court was informed that the defense could not get here for trial this week.

Prosecutor Kiplinger says that the State is ready for trial at any time.

IS RIDDING THE CITY OF TRAMPS

Policeman Pea Has Driven
Out Fifty-Three Since
May 4th.

Policeman Pea is making a record for himself in the west part of town. He is keeping the city free from tramps and since he has been on duty very few of the "wandering gentry" have appeared upon the streets. As soon as a tramp strikes Rushville, Policeman Pea is upon his trail, and is only a short space of time until the "weary one" is marching out the railroad track in search of "pastures new." Policeman Pea has broken up several established camps of hoboes along the railroad tracks, and has been very busy since May 4th, when he went on duty. Since that time he has driven a total of fifty-three tramps out of Rushville. The policemen keep a record of each tramp driven out and will report to the marshal at the end of each month.

—Congressman Watson went to New Castle today to deliver the commencement address tonight. He was accompanied by Owen L. Carr, A. L. Riggs and Charles F. Edgerton. The trip was made in Mr. Carr's automobile.

OLD HARMONY SINGING CLASS

Will Meet at Morristown on May 27th, 1906 in M. E.
Church.

An Annual Event—Eight of Original Members Still Alive.

Another year has rolled around and again comes the time for the Old Missouri Harmony Singers to think of their meeting at Morristown on the 27th of May. The old class of singers had a reputation covering considerable territory and each year when their reunions are held at the First Methodist church in Morristown, hundreds of people go for miles to be in attendance. It is looked forward to with much pleasure by those who participate in the grand event and by the younger generation who have learned to reverence the sacred meeting of their ancestors.

In the year 1837, the Missouri Harmony singers organized, and at that time their meetings were held in the old log school house near the place Morristown now stands. The class consisted of forty-five members. The object of the organization was to take lessons in singing and competent instructors were employed to lead the class.

The men paid for their lessons by giving fifty cents for a term for twelve lessons and the women furnished all the fuel and lights.

For years this class of singers continued to meet, but their numbers grew scattered and the meetings grew less in number each year until finally but one each year was held. This has been the custom for the past several years and as stated above the day is looked forward to with eager anticipation by hundreds of people.

The first leader was Dr. McGaughey. During the time he instructed them the change of meeting place was made to the church at Morristown, and they have been held there ever since.

After Dr. McGaughey retired from the leadership, Dr. Adams, of Noah, was the next man at the helm. He led the class for a number of years, and at the last meeting Dr. Potter, a nephew of Dr. McGaughey, of Irvington, was selected to lead the class. He will be in charge of the meeting to be held on May 27th. Of all the forty-five original members there now survive but eight. These eight members are getting well along in years and it is probable this will be the last meeting they will ever hold upon earth. They are growing old and feeble and it is with much difficulty that they are enabled to be in attendance.

There was one death last year, Mrs. Cynthia Morrison, of Greenfield. She died at the age of eighty-one years. The surviving members now are: Harriet H. Watts, of Fountaintown, age seventy-seven years; Mrs. Phoebe Cotton, Manilla, seventy-eight; Mrs. Jane Wolfe, Brightwood, eighty-one; John Johnson, Morristown, eighty-five; W. W. Woodward, Morristown, eighty-four; Mrs. W. W. Woodward, Morristown, eighty-seven; James H. Foxworthy, Rushville, ninety.

ANOTHER BOY IS BITTEN BY A DOG

The eight-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Manzy Bebout was bitten, yesterday morning on West Second street, by a dog, said to belong to Miss Kate Moor. No serious consequences are feared. Mr. Manzy, it is said, wanted the dog killed, but the owner objected. The dog is still at large. The Manzy boy rode a bicycle at the time he was bitten.

—Mrs. Panthea Smiley and Misses Leonore and Alice Norris attended the dedicatory exercises at the I. O. O. F. Home at Greensburg yesterday.

PLAINTIFF LOSES REPLEVIN SUIT

Court Allows Mrs. Rogers to Retain the Household Goods.

The case of Francis Rogers vs. Emma Rogers, tried in 'Squire Keith's court at Shelbyville, Tuesday afternoon, was decided Wednesday morning in favor of the defendant, which secures her in the possession of a piano and other household furniture over which the dispute had been waged. The Rogers formerly lived in Rushville, where Mrs. Rogers conducted a boarding house and paid for the furniture. A divorce suit is now pending in the circuit court in which Mr. and Mrs. Rogers are the principals and this caused the suit over the property.

OBJECTS TO THE USE OF DYNAMITE

Restraining Order Is Granted
Western Union Against The I. & C.

To prevent the alleged excessive use of dynamite by men constructing the right-of-way of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati Traction company between this city and Connersville, a temporary restraining order was issued by Judge James M. Leathers of Superior Court No. 2, at Indianapolis, yesterday afternoon. The order was issued on the petition of the Western Union company, directed against the traction company and the Kinser Construction company, contractors for the work.

The petition filed by the telegraph company alleges that in removing stones and trees and stumps from the right-of-way the workmen have been using excessive charges of dynamite. The debris thrown in the air by these blasts, it is alleged, has fallen on the wires of the telegraph company situated on the adjoining right-of-way of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad. It is alleged that the wires and poles have been so badly wrecked that the business of the telegraph company between Indianapolis and Cincinnati has been seriously interrupted.

HAS THE HIGHEST RATE OF TAXATION

Rushville Compared With Some of Her Neighboring Cities.

Figures compiled by State Statistician Stubbs which give accurate information about taxes and tax rates in the cities of Indiana show that in comparison with the other cities of its size in this part of the State, Rushville has the highest tax rate of all. As the statistician reports the rate of taxation in the cities of the State varies from $10.6 to $3.28 on the hundred dollars: the average rate being $1.81. The levy in this city is $1.95 and the taxable property amounts to $2,431,870.

Some of our neighbors tax levies are: Columbus, $1.70; Connersville, $1.70; Lawrenceburg, $1.77; North Vernon, $1.70; Greensburg, $1.65; Shelbyville, $1.27.

The taxable property for same places: Columbus, $3,707,495; Connersville, not correctly given; Lawrenceburg, $1,380,000; North Vernon, $1,104,000; Greensburg, $2,834,470; Shelbyville, $5,124,714.

THE GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION

Hanly Directs the People's Attention to Decoration
Day.

Let Us Make this the Holiest
Day in the Calendar of all Years, Says He.

Indianapolis, May 17.—Governor Hanly has issued the following proclamation:

In the name of our soldier dead, in acknowledgment of their transcendent services, and in memory of their exalted devotion and unexampled sacrifices, I, J. Frank Hanly, governor of the state of Indiana, do hereby designate and set apart Wednesday, the thirtieth day of May, 1906, as

MEMORIAL DAY

It is fitting that we pause in the glad springtime, when the earth is filled with the laughter of children, with the songs of birds and the murmur of hurrying waters, and beautified by flower and vine and shrub and tree and field and sky, and turn for one day from the varied cares and complex activities of our daily lives, to count again the cost of freedom and recall the valor of those who saved the land and kept the flag.

Let us make this the holiest day in the calendar of all the years—sacred as the cause for which they died. Let toll be discontinued. Let business cease. Let all public offices be closed. Let the flag be seen everywhere, at half-mast, from public buildings, state, county, town and city; wrapped about the portals of our homes and planted upon every mound beneath which a soldier sleeps. Let the people assemble in church and cemetery, and with music, oratory and song pay tribute to their memory. Let affection's grateful tears embalm anew and gentle, tender hands spread wide the floral evidences of our love.

"The turf that wraps their clay,"

Let us so keep this day that the surviving comrades of our dead may know we do not forget; that our children may be assured of the sincerity of our devotion, and that our young men and women may be re-impressed with the value of free institutions and the sacredness of obligations by them about to be assumed.

Standing at the chancel of memory's holy shrine, let us renew the covenant made with Lincoln at Gettysburg. "That these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom"—a "new birth" more glorious and abiding even than the old.

That the day may be a Memorial day in spirit and in truth, I urge that all the people refrain from frivolous and noisy amusements, and that none infract the law.

Done at the capitol in Indianapolis, and given under my hand and the great seal of the state, this 16th day of May, in the year of our Lord 1906, and in the year of the admission of the state of Indiana the 90th.

POLICEMEN TO BE NICELY UNIFORMED

Policemen Price and Pea, the new officers appointed by the new council, have ordered fine new blue uniforms, with double breasted coats and brass buttons and blue helmets, through Bliss & Cowing. The uniforms will be tailor made and will, it is said, present a very attractive appearance. The suits are expected here tomorrow or Saturday. It has been suggested that the two drivers of the fire department be uniformed. This is the custom at Connersville, Greensburg and Shelbyville.

AUTOMOBILES RUN TOGETHER

Dr. Barnum of Manilla, Figures in Smash-Up at Shelbyville.

Frank Clark, of Shelbyville, and Dr. Barnum, the latter of Manilla, had a collision of automobiles in Shelbyville, Wednesday afternoon, but luckily no one was injured. Mr. Clark was returning from Franklin with a party of friends and was running at a rapid gait.

Dr. Barnum and Thomas Salee were taking in the sights of Shelbyville in Dr. Barnum's road machine. Dr. Barnum emerged from West street on to Broadway and Mr. Clark was coming up Broadway. The two men saw each other at the same time. Mr. Clark shut off power and applied the air on his heavy machine, but it went crashing into the light machine of Dr. Barnum.

Dr. Barnum had one spoke broken, the fender badly damaged, one wheel twisted and strained and the spindle and front axle badly bent. The machine was taken to a repair shop, where it was repaired and Dr. Barnum proceeded on his way homeward, badly shaken up, but uninjured.

LAD IS INJURED IN RUNAWAY

Eight Year Old Son of Samuel Arnold Thrown From Buggy.

The eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Arnold, of near Gwynneville, was severely injured in a runaway accident that occurred yesterday near the residence of A. Tribby, three miles north and a mile west of Arlington. The boy was thrown out of the buggy and badly cut and bruised about the head. Dr. McGray, of Morristown, attended him.

NOW SET FOR JUNE SECOND

Democratic Congressional Convention at Greenfield—Meek in Town.

Sylvester Meek, of Connersville, Democratic chairman of the Sixth Congressional district, was in the city last evening trying to pour oil on the turbulent waters among his brethren in Rush county. Meek was on his way home from Greenfield, where he attended a meeting of the county chairmen, which was held in Mason & Jackson's law office. Will L. Newbold, the Rush county chairman was not present. A singular thing also is the fact that Meek was given "the cold shoulder" during his stay in Rushville. He put in his time wandering about the streets and only a few of his "followers" did he meet and they turned a deaf ear to his utterances.

At the meeting in Greenfield yesterday, June 2d, at 1 o'clock p. m. was fixed upon as the time for the convention. John W. Kern, of Indianapolis; M. E. Foley, of Crawfordsville, and other speakers will be present. It now looks like Rev. T. H. Kuhn, of Richmond, would be nominated. Rev. Kuhn attended the meeting at Greenfield, yesterday. The others who were present were: Wm. Ryan, chairman of Decatur county; B. F. Wisner, of Wayne county; Lawrence Wood, of Hancock county, and U. S. Jackson, of Greenfield, who is a member of the State Executive Committee.

CITIZENS ARE STANDING PAT

Orange People Have Mail Delivery System of Their Own.

Absolutely Refuse to Accept Rural Route Service and Hire Their Own Carrier.

The spirit that prompted the dumping of the tea in Boston Harbor is abroad in the pretty and ambitious little town of Orange. Its people bitterly resent the action of the government in depriving them of their postoffice and are showing their independence of the rural mail routes offered as a substitute, by running a postoffice of their own.

Orange mail comes first to Glenwood and, instead of being turned over to the regular rural carrier, it is put in a sack.

Thirty-one citizens of Orange have banded together and employed their carrier. He goes to Glenwood, two miles distant, gets the mail and carries it to the old postoffice where Sam Tuttle, as he has for twelve years past, distributes the letters and papers, just as though there had never been an order from Washington abolishing the postoffice. A few who have gone over to the "enemy" and accepted rural route service, now want to get back, but they are rigidly barred.

One Orange citizen was asked how long he thought this arrangement would last. "Just as long," he replied, "as our money holds out, and we are not going broke very fast, as our carrier is reasonable in his charges and Sam Tuttle is not going to 'kick' for a big salary."

FOILED IN ATTEMPT TO BEAT BOARD BILL

Policeman Pea Catches Kentuck-
ian Leaving Blackburn House.

An attempt to beat a board bill was frustrated about 5 o'clock this morning by the timely arrival of Policeman Pea.

About three weeks ago a man giving his name as Dick Tutman and his residence as Georgetown, Ky., engaged room and board at the home of Mrs. T. J. Blackburn, 934 West Third street. Early this morning he packed his telescope and attempted to leave the house unseen without paying his board bill.

Mrs. Blackburn discovered his plans in time, however, and the man was held until the policeman's arrival. He proved to be short of change and a compromise was effected. Mrs. Blackburn receiving only a portion of her money. Tutman had been employed at the Star carriage works while in Rushville.

League for Recovery of Majority Rule Recognizes Its Finish.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 17.—The Democratic League for Recovery of the Majority Rule, which was organized a fortnight ago to put Thomas Taggart out of business as a party leader, has decided to wait until 1908 to accomplish its purposes. In the meantime an organization will be formed in every county "for the purpose of wresting control of the party from the Taggart ring," according to a manifesto issued last night on behalf of the league. Ex-Mayor John W. Holtzman and a few of his lieutenants held a secret conference at the Hotel English yesterday afternoon at which they discussed the situation very carefully. Every speaker took a crack at Taggart and a few declared that O'Brien should resign as chairman of the state committee, but after it was all said and done the decision was that the time is not yet ripe to retire Taggart to the political catacombs. The fact that Taggart voluntarily retired as treasurer of the organization and that members of the executive committee recently appointed are satisfactory to the league, was seized upon as a vehicle for getting out from under the original proposition that Taggart should be relegated and the committee reorganized at the coming state convention.

John W. Kern, late Democratic candidate for governor, has received a postal card from William Jennings Bryan from a point in India, merely stating "Half way round, best wishes." Mr. Bryan was then half way around on his tour around the world. Mr. Kern expects him to land in this country by the middle of July or early in August. He says that Mr. Bryan will undoubtedly be invited to deliver a number of speeches in this state during the fall campaign. Many Democratic leaders here are already expressing the hope that Mr. Bryan will return in time to participate in the state campaign. Governor Folk has been invited to attend the state convention, but no reply has been received from him.

Charles W. Miller, attorney general, who recently wrote to James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations at Washington, offering to assist him in probing the affairs of the Standard Oil company and other trusts in Indiana, has received a letter from the commissioner, thanking him and saying that there is nothing to be done now by him in this state. Mr. Miller was notified today that the hearing of the suit of the state against A. C. Dally of Lebanon, former auditor of state, for $25,000 alleged to be due from him for money illegally held as fees, will be tried June 8 by the circuit court at Lebanon. There is a similar case pending here against J. O. Henderson, ex-auditor of state.

The appellate court has decided that when a man and wife purchase property jointly in her name that she may hold it after they are divorced. The decision was in the case of John P. Shipley, who tried to assert his rights in a farm he and wife had acquired in her name, as a part of his defense to her action for divorce, but the trial court struck out the pleading with reference to the farm, and the higher court sustained it. In Shipley's case there was a verbal understanding that the farm belonged to him and should be transferred to him, but the court held that the wife was entitled to bring the suit for divorce for misconduct and to retain the land.

Chairman Goodrich of the Republican state committee, is in Washington. When he left the headquarters here he said that he was going to the capital on business, but as usual it is suspected that he has a political mission. It is thought that he may have gone at this time to ask the postoffice department to dismiss the charges lodged against some of the Eighth district postmasters during the recent fight between Cromer and Stilwell for the Republican congressional nomination.

The Democrats of this district will not be able to draft Meredith Nicholson into running for congress. The author does not intend to get into the political game, notwithstanding the fact that some very flattering things have been said about him. He said today that he feels complimented on being "urged," but he can't accept a nomination for political office.

The Princeton Democrat is one of the Democratic papers that are insisting on a reorganization of the state central committee. The Democrat says: "It is no secret that the present state organization is one which augers ill for the party success next fall if the present organization is continued. The kick is that the organization came from the 'top down instead of the masses up.'"

John W. Kern is one of the big Democrats of the state, yet the Columbus Times, one of the most radical Democratic papers in the southern half of the state, roasts him to a turn and advises him to take a back seat. The Times has not forgotten that Kern was among the anti-free silver Democrats in 1896 and that he made speeches against Democracy as taught by Bryan. The Times also has the kindness to tell Kern that he was beaten for governor by nearly a hundred thousand, all of which goes to show how hopelessly mixed are the policies of our Democratic brethren.

As an instance of the splendid sort of instruction given the inmates of the Indiana Boys' School at Plainfield may be cited the plans for the erection of a new manual training shop at the school, a two-story building, and to be built of brick. The feature of its construction will be the fact that with the exception of the services of one brickmason, all work on the new hall will be done by the boys in the manual training department of the school under the direction of John S. Butcher, the head of the department. It is expected that the building will be completed within sixty days. The regular manual training course will be discontinued while the boys take a practical course in building. In the wood-working department the boys have manufactured practically all the furniture used by the school.

State Labor Commissioner McCormick, who has come up from the ranks, is authority for the statement that practically all the labor legislation we have in this country is in Republican states, and of these Indiana is well to the fore with many splendid laws in the interest of the public, and particularly of benefit to those who toil. And on the other hand, labor in these protected Republican states is compelled to compete often to their great disadvantage with the cheap labor and child labor and sweatshops which flourish without hindrance in the Democratic states, notably Georgia, Florida and the two Carolinas. In many ways the laboring man owes the Republican party large debts of gratitude, and if he conserves his best interest he will seek to avoid a change, as he would seek to avoid a pestilence or other evil that would work a hardship on him and those dependent upon his efforts.

The Republican party long ago won the reputation of making its pledges good. Another pleasing instance of a Republican pledge redeemed is when Secretary of State Fred A. Sims and Auditor Warren Bigler made their quarterly settlement with the state a few days ago, each included the accrued interest with the money turned over to the state. In reply to a question about the matter Mr. Sims said: "I cannot see why it is not right. A public office is just like a receivership or a trust. Any receiver or trustee who would handle large sums of private money would surely be expected to account for any interest that he might receive on such funds. I think the same rule should apply to a state officer and that the state should get all the revenue." It will be remembered that the platform adopted at the recent state convention declared the interest on public funds belonged to the public, and without waiting for legislation on the subject these Republican officials make their party's pledge good so far as their offices are concerned.

The Elkhart Truth, one of the strong Democratic papers of northern Indiana, has the following very sensible words to say of the socialistic talk which promises glittering impossibilities in the frantic effort to win supporters to its cause:

"It is useless to talk of socialism or any theory for an equal enjoyment of the world's goods until people generally are more equally mentally endowed. Equality of rights in any capacity is not a question of legislation or of social economies. There is no scheme by which all persons can be placed on the same mental footing, and before we may be permitted to share equally in the good things of life we must all be sized up by the same mental standard. Until the time when the brain and sinew of the country can mentally and morally be uplifted and the greed of our money barons be levelled we must expect to be dominated financially by our Rockefeller and Morgans. Newspaper and other writers anxious to be of public service should devote their efforts to the urging of a more general dissemination of the use of brain detriments. No man can rise in the world to his fullest mental stature who indulges bad habits or any other tendency that impairs his brain energy."

CAN'T LET IT ALONE

Bailey and Tillman Are Still Fooling With the Buzz Saw.

THE TEXAN WORKED UP

Among the Mildest Terms of Bailey's Protest Against Criticism Is a Sout and Explosive "Liar."

Mr. Tillman and Former Senator Chandler Also Have a Further Word to Say.

Washington, May 17.—The recent efforts of the president and the Democratic senatorial leaders to reach an agreement on the rate bill have received further notice in the senate from Senators Bailey and Tillman. The matter was referred to by the Texas senator in the course of an explanation called out by an article in the Chicago Tribune charging Mr. Bailey with failure to find common ground, and by Mr. Tillman in a speech in support of Mr. Bailey and in presenting a further statement from ex-Senator Chandler.

In his address Mr. Bailey denounced the article in question as a "lie," and the author and inspirer of it as "liars." Senator Bailey said that his attention had been called to another article, printed in the New York Tribune. He said it was of the same character as that printed by the Chicago Tribune and that evidently they had been timed to bring them both to Washington at the same time. Pointing to the press gallery, he said:

"I intend to put it in the Record upon the statement of more than one reputable newspaper correspondent in that gallery, and as a rule they are as honorable as senators on this floor. On their authority I state that two chief cuckoos of this administration are the correspondents of the New York Tribune and the Chicago Tribune. And therefore it seems to me conclusive that this slander proceeds from the White House. I hope, for the honor of my country, that it does not proceed from the president himself."

"But if he be a man of a high sense of honor he will see to it that senators are not slandered by his subordinates and the miserable wretch who communicated to these newspapers, and who sought through them to communicate to the country a slander on me which people might discuss, rather than the issues that have been raised, he is unfit for his high office, and the man who perpetrated that infamy will pay for it with his position; and if the man continues to hold his office it is to be assumed that what he has done has been with the approval of his chief."

There also was a sharp colloquy between Senators Daniel and Tillman over an amendment to the anti-pass provision. The consideration of the rate bill in the committee of the whole was concluded and the measure was then reported to the senate, where there will be opportunity to review and alter all the amendments heretofore made.

Following is the anti-pass provisions as agreed upon: "That no carrier engaged in interstate commerce shall hereafter directly or indirectly issue or give any interstate free ticket, free pass or free transportation for passengers except to its officers, agents and employees and members of their immediate families, to its actual and bona fide attorneys and physicians and surgeons and their immediate families, and female nurses who served during the civil war, to ministers of religion and inmates of hospitals and eleemosynary and charitable institutions, and to indigent, destitute and homeless persons, or destitute and homeless persons transported by charitable societies or hospitals and the necessary agents employed in such transportation; and to inmates of the national homes or state homes for disabled volunteer soldiers or ex-Confederate soldiers, ex-Union soldiers and sailors and inmates of soldiers' and sailors' homes, including those about to enter and those returning home after discharge under arrangements with the boards of managers of said homes."

House Wants Big Sea Fighter. The naval appropriation bill, carrying nearly a hundred million dollars, was completed in the house after one of the busiest days of the present congress. The feature of the day's debate grew out of the attempt to defeat the appropriation for the largest battleship of its class in the world, which was defeated, as was the amendment leaving the construction of the battleship to the discretion of the secretary of the navy after the second Hague conference. A final vote on the bill will be taken today.

How It Is Done Sensational Testimony in Wisconsin Insurance Hearing.

Milwaukee, May 17.—The most sensational testimony which has been presented to the special insurance investigating committee of the Wisconsin legislature was given late yesterday afternoon when Insurance Commissioner Host of the Wisconsin department of insurance testified before the committee that on June 16, 1903, the day on which the hearing in the case of the state of Wisconsin against the Equitable Life Assurance society for a compulsory distribution of the surplus of that company to Wisconsin policy holders was to be held by him, Secretary of State Walter L. Houser entered the insurance commissioner's office and said that if Mr. Host would render a decision in accordance with a slip handed by Mr. Houser to Mr. Host, which would have been a decision favorable to the Equitable company, that the Equitable Life Assurance society would give $2,000 toward a campaign fund for a renomination of the state officers in the next campaign.

The slip which Insurance Commissioner Host testified that Secretary of State Host handed to him was presented to the commission and contained on it these words: "Petition is denied and same is dismissed for the reason that a determination of the subject thereof requires the exercise of judicial functions that cannot be exercised by the defendant. It is further announced as a rule of this department that no similar proceedings be entertained until a final adjudication of the same is had in the courts of the state."

Mr. Host testified that he told Mr. Houser that he would think the matter over. His decision was against the Equitable Life Assurance society, which afterward took the case into the courts, and there obtained a rule adverse to Mr. Host's order for a compulsory distribution of the surplus on deferred dividends policies at least once in five years. Insurance Commissioner Host further testified that Robert Luscombe, a lobbyist, who has for years represented Eastern insurance companies before various legislatures, telephoned to him three times from Chicago between June 16 and July 31, 1903, the latter having been the day on which Mr. Host rendered his decision, and asked Mr. Host to come to Chicago, saying he thought he had an argument which would convince Mr. Host that the statute in question was not compulsory.

Secretary of State Houser took the stand in his own defense and admitted that he and Luscombe were friends and declared that Luscombe had handed him the written slip of paper which he had handed to Mr. Host and requested that he give it to the insurance commissioner.

New Primary Law "Conceived in a Refrigerator and Born in a Frost."

Springfield, Ill., May 17.—After a sensational speech by Lieutenant Governor Sherman, the special session of the Illinois legislature which was called by Governor Deneen to enact a new primary election law, resulted in the adoption of a bill framed by Speaker E. D. Shurtliff. The measure had a close call, receiving only a bare majority in the house. It is expected that Governor Deneen will sign the bill making it a law July 1. The passage of the bill is considered a victory for Governor Deneen, as an effort was made to bring about a final adjournment without the enactment of any sort of a primary law. Lieut.-Gov. Sherman's speech was made after he had announced the vote in the senate. He denounced the bill as a humiliating failure, saying: "There is not one line in it you may point to and say that it gives the people a right to say whom they shall nominate. It puts a premium on gerrymandering and future deadlocks in conventions. It portrays great and painful motion without one inch of progress. It seems to me that it was conceived in a refrigerator and born in a frost."

Village Under Martial Law.

Coeysmans, N. Y., May 17.—What is practically martial law reigns in this little town on the west bank of the Hudson river, twelve miles south of Albany. The strike of the brick-makers in force all along the Hudson broke into riot here and after a battle between the 500 union strikers and nearly as many negro non-union men, in which one man was severely wounded, Sheriff Pitts was called from Albany. He decided that he and his deputy could not suppress the riot, and four Albany companies of militia were called for.

RUSHVILLE REMINISCENCES

By Charles A. Woodward.
IV.
CHAMPION RIFLEMAN.

Taking up the thread of my subject, (broken off at the close of my last letter) I want to call attention to one circumstance that I think "Jeff" will admit will go very far toward establishing my claim that Finley Bigger was the champion rifle shot of Rushville at that time. Nearly every family in those days kept one or more pigs in a pen or otherwise, to eat the scraps and waste from the table, or stable, if they kept a horse, and drink, the slops from the dishwashing, etc. Some kept more, of course, according to their ability to furnish food for them, governed also somewhat by the size of the family for which the aforesaid pigs were to furnish meat.

Joe Hamilton, I remember, had quite a lot of them in a pen back of his premises which he was fattening for the winter's meat for his hotel. And when "butcherin'" time came round, Finley Bigger generously offered to shoot the hogs for the men who were to dress them, which offer was very gratefully accepted by Mr. Hamilton. Hamilton had just taken a raw Irish boy to attend to his stable and do the general chores about the place. I suspect he was the same "Patrick" that my friend Cowing speaks of as one of the few Irishmen who were in Rushville at that time. At any rate, fresh from the "ould sod" we naturally dubbed him "Pat."

This butchering scene was new to Pat. For, while many of the tenants, even the poorer ones, in Ireland at that time managed to keep and fatten a pig, very few of them were even allowed to kill it, much less eat it. "He was the gentleman what pays the rint," and he was at the proper time driven away to the landlord or his agent. This big slaughter then was a revelation to Pat and with wide open eyes and mouth he watched every shot that Bigger made, intent on following the course of the bullet in its flight from the gun to the brain of the unfortunate hog.

About that time the Mexican war was looming up like a dark and portentous cloud in our southern horizon. Pat had heard of it and not having any very clear idea about it came to me a few days after "hog killing" for some information in regard to it. His ideas was that the Mexicans would come over to us in great swarms like Egyptian locusts or Kansas grasshoppers and scatter all over the country. And I will never forget his earnestness in the matter and the remark with which he wound up his ideas on the subject, showing his great faith in, and his confident reliance on Bigger in the emergency, "Och, mon, dear, if they be after craping and snaking around here, wont Bigger fetch a few of them though?"

But Bigger was not allowed to hold the championship belt very long. There was a competitor rapidly coming to the front in the person of a fifteen-year-old boy, who was bound to soon wrest the honors from him. That competitor was none other than our friend "Jeff's" older brother, "Jim Harvey Carr." "Jim" was the best shot for small game in the woods that I ever saw use a rifle. I was very often his companion on his hunting trips (being at that time a member of his father's family) and therefore in a position to testify as to his prowess in that line.

But here let me put myself right before some readers, lest some may think

HEALTH IN RUSHVILLE

F. B. Johnson & Co. Say Care of Digestion Solves Problem of Long Life.

F. B. Johnson & Co. believe that the problem of long life is solved by proper care of the digestive organs. Let the stomach get out of condition and soon there will be nervousness, irritation, furred tongue, specks before the eyes, weakness, debility, indigestion and other physical and mental troubles that directly result from a weakened stomach.

Of all the vital organs, the stomach is the most frequently abused, and hence, the one which most frequently fails, and so with the discovery of a remedy like Mi-o-na stomach tablets, which is sold on an absolute guarantee to strengthen the digestive system, aid in assimilation of food, and cure all troubles caused by indigestion, an important step has been taken towards solving the question of good health and long life.

F. B. Johnson & Co. sell Mi-o-na on an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. A large box of the tablets costs but 50 cents if it helps you; nothing if it fails.

I am posing (as old western hunters express it) as being "something in a bar fight myself." Far from it. I was never an expert with a gun, always a mere amateur. I never used a rifle; could hardly hit the broad side of a barn at any reasonable distance from it. I always wondered why that was so, for I had a remarkably steady nerve. Even now at eighty-four years I am blest with such a good nerve that photographers when they want to make some ideal picture that requires a "time" exposure, call on me to pose for them, because, as they say, I can sit all day without the bat of an eye or a twitch of a nerve. But I couldn't shoot with a rifle. The fact is, although I was never fairly conscious of it, I believe when I got ready to pull trigger I shut both eyes tight and didn't see the object I was aiming at. I had to take a shot gun—something that didn't require so close a sight on the game, something that would scatter. Even then I often missed, and it seemed like the game would dodge between the shot and get away. But the shot gun just suited me; its scattering propensities seemed to harmonize with my own habits and inclinations. I had lived a rather scattering life—here and there and everywhere, up and down the earth. Scattered my means like so much dirt. Scattered opportunities to the four winds. No doubt but many of your readers will readily believe from the scattering style of my communication that I am still using the shot gun, still scattering. Ah, well! I feel an inward comfort in the thought that while I was scattering wild oats broad east, there mingled with the oats an occasional flower—a rose that fell in the pathway of some one whose life might otherwise have been far less bright and happy. On the whole I have a feeling of satisfaction and contentment with my shotgun proclivities. One single incident may suffice to show Jim's skill with the rifle. We had been down the river one afternoon and returning toward town in the evening, scared up a squirrel which quickly scampered up a tall tree and never stopped until got to the top of it, and there proceeded to hide (as we seem to think), but a squirrel never thoroughly hides. While they manage to conceal their bodies from the hunter their head are always more or less exposed. They never hide so that they cannot see you and note every motion that you make. You go around the tree and by an imperceptible motion they glide around from one side of the tree or limb to the other, always keeping their sharp eyes on you, thus exposing at least a part of their head. That squirrel was hidden from me, but never could a squirrel hide from Jim unless he took to a hole and pulled the hole in after him. Jim peered and peeped and squinted around and around the tree until finally, "I see him," he said. "I think I see his ears and if that's him I'll jiss 'scalp' him." With that he pulled up and fired and down came the squirrel with the whole top of his head shot away, completely "scalped."

I recall one other incident further, demonstrating Jim's masterful handling of the rifle. As soon as the mill race was finished and the water let in, it was discovered that a great many fish came out from the dam into the race, and ran up and down the race in sportive glee as if delighted to find a new outlet—something to change the old monotonous life in the river bed. Jim got "wise to it" directly and built a fish trap up at the head of the race. It was a strange kind of double-headed affair that, like the old darkey's coon trap was made so as to "catch de coon whether he was a comin' or a gwine." Very early one morning Jim invited me to go up to his fish trap with him. Even on a short jaunt like that he wanted company, although the race ran through open fields and did not touch the woods until near the head of it. Besides, it was a very delightful little morning walk for me which I remember I enjoyed very much. Of course, Jim took his old companion (his gun) along.

On the way up toward the trap a very large hawk came flying over almost directly above us and either to inspect us or possibly to examine something more closely that she saw on the ground, she began one of those strange maneuvers so peculiar to the hawk—that of poisoning in mid air and keeping itself in position by a gentle fluttering of the wings. I was admiring the movement and studying the why and the wherefore of it, but Jim's ideas were more practical and not quite so poetical. To me she seemed to be entirely out of rifle range, but not so to him, for he quickly pulled up and fired, and it was the last free performance for Mrs. Hawk. And the poor little hawklets that were nesting at home are still waiting for that breakfast that never came, for the mother hawk quickly tumbled to the ground dead. Besides our healthy morning walk and the hawk episode we, with the rest of the family enjoyed a splendid breakfast of fresh fish.

Jim had other accomplishments besides his skill with the rifle, two of which I remember very well. He was an expert fisherman besides his traps.

He was a very skillful angler and it sometimes seemed as though the fish would come to his hook to be caught just to keep the other fellows from getting them, for he would catch fish right along, where the others would rarely get a nibble. He was also the most expert kite-flyer in all the country. A kite would fly for him and soar up to the very clouds, when the same kite in the hands of another boy would lay dead on the ground for the want of wind enough to lift it. How long he kept up those pursuits I don't know, but as they were inborn, ingrained and inbred, I doubt not they clung to him through all his life.

THE PERCHERON STALLION

DORE

The Rushville Percheron Horse Association, recognizing the growing demand and popularity of this superior breed of draft horses, and the fact that only a typical animal in every sense of the word would meet the hearty approval and support of the breeders and admirers, has secured in their Prize-winning Imported Percheron Stallion, DORE, as to both breeding and individuality, what our most competent horseman pronounce the best draft horse that has ever graced a Rush County stable.

Your most critical inspection is solicited, and courteous treatment assured.

DESCRIPTION.
